

FROM COTILLONS TO HENS; SOCIETY GIRL BUYS A FARM.Left an Orphan, She Pays Her Father's Debts; Now Banking Money.COLUMBIA, N. H., April 4.—Pink tea and cotillions have lost their glamour for Miss Caroline Laughton."If the hens do well I shall devote the balance of my life to raising chickens," she said, and to carry out her plans she has bought an extensive chicken farm near this place.Before taking this step there was never a social function in which Miss Laughton did not come first. She is most pleasing in her manner and was one of the best dressers in the exclusive set of a community of pedigreed society.Her mother died and her father became discouraged. He lost interest in his business, sickened and died. He left his daughter and her baby sister $2,000 and the old home.The daughter disposed of the home and paid off some of her father's obligations. She went to the country on a visit, and it was there the idea came to her of raising chickens. She mentioned the plan to some of her father's friends, and he arranged for the purchase of a farm for her. She paid $1,000 for the farm and sold out her possessions and an inheritance. Her first purchase of fowls came to $100.At the end of the first year she had sold 100 dozen eggs and 245 broilers, which she had hatched from an incubator. The second year she had 1,000 eggs and 1,000 broilers. Today she has two farms. She runs the farm herself with the assistance of one man. She does not regret for one moment leaving Spartanburg and all her friends there, and as for society, she has the birds and flowers and the dirt country, where only a few friends are true and the possession of a little money does not influence friendship as it does in a large city.

CURES

ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.

Having had cough, colds and spitting all the time, with sick stomach, my nose so stuffed I had to breathe through my mouth, and knowing that Prof.
Koch of Berlin had authorized only one place in this country, I at once went there, at 119 W. 22d st., saw Joseph Koch, of New York, N. Y., where I was cured in two months and feel well now.

"Atherton" Week at The Wanamaker StoreThe third week of the notable distribution by the International Association of Newspapers and Authors is especially devoted to a novel which has proved equally popular at home and abroad. It is"AMERICAN WIVES & ENGLISH HUSBANDS." By Gertrude AthertonMrs. Atherton is one of the most brilliant of America's women novelists.
The charm and power of her tales are undeniable. When she takes up her pen she has a story to tell and knows how to tell it.The SATURDAY REVIEW (London), that consistent enemy of all things American, says: "America has never found the woman whom she has long wanted, or at least lacked—a woman who to technical competence adds that width of vision and comprehension of the broad issues of life which are the better part of the artist's equipment."The NEW YORK HERALD says: "Her book discusses a problem which has rarely been handled with so much felicity."
The TRIBUNE says: "She has painted truthfully, as no one has ever done before, the typical American Girl."The MAIL AND EXPRESS says: "'American Wives and English Husbands' may be considered the ablest novel yet written on the subject of Anglo-American marriages, and also as one of the notable books of the decade."This popular copyrighted work of 339 pages, the publisher's price for which has always been $1.50, is now practically reproduced in a new edition, printed from the original plates on good paper, bound in dark olive, with ornamental back and cover in gray and black, making a volume just as good to read as the expensive edition and almost as attractive to look at, and yet the price for those who take advantage of the present distribution by the Association is only Twenty-five Cents a copy

This radical reduction is only made possible because author and publisher surrender royalty and profit for a time in exchange for wide publicity, for mutual future benefit.This is the easy way to get the books as issued. The Association announcements are made in The World exclusively, and in each announcement are printed Book Vouchers. The little voucher together with the little price brings the book of the week or of any preceding week while the allotment lasts. It is best to apply promptly either personally or by mail.
